Hello Le,

It's been 6 weeks already after you started working on our order and we didn't get even a single picture since. We're surprised, because it looks different to what we agreed, and with the vision of future cooperation it doesn't seem to be serious.

Could you please explain the reason for such a delay?

We have our costs because of preparing marketing basis and running the company, which was set-up especially for the scooter business, and if the scooters will arrive later than we planned, the season will be over and selling them would be much harder. I'm sure you understand that.

We would like to know what is the status of our order at the moment, and what is the realistic date of finishing it and shipping the scooters to us. We would also like to get the pictures from different stages of works, to place them on the website.

Looking forward to hearing from you soon.

Best Regards,
